

THE POWER OF MENTORING

MISSION

We connect college students with the most to give to kids who need it most.

VISION

We want all school kids to look forward sooner and be able to give back later.

What is College Mentors for Kids?

A unique mentoring program that pairs college student volunteers with 1st-6th grade kids for after-school mentoring activities that take place on the college campus.

How does it work?

University-based chapters, set up as student organizations, partner with interested, local elementary schools. College student leaders manage the program and select the mentors from a pool of annual college student applicants. The mentors are trained and screened by the national office.

What are activities like?

Kids and mentors are paired one-on-one, but all activities take place in a group setting. Activities take place every week during the school year and focus on three topics: higher education & careers, culture & diversity, and community service. Each day of mentoring involves a “college question of the week,” a hands-on activity, reading, and journaling.

How are kids selected to participate?

The kids who participate in the College Mentors program are selected by staff members at the partner school.

What are the goals of the College Mentors program?

College Mentors for Kids’ goals are to increase positive youth development, increase academic engagement and achievement, and increase community engagement and leadership development in college student volunteers.
